Handelsblatt June 25, 2009 - Equity analysis: Analysts in retreat

"In the financial crisis the amount of information available to investors is declining. Banks all over the world cover fewer and fewer companies. The decline in analyst reporting is due to the banks' austerity measures, in the course of which many analyst jobs were cut."

"BayernLB has discontinued its coverage of individual stocks for private clients of savings banks. Instead, BayernLB, like cooperative bank WGZ Bank, purchases analysis services from independent analyst company Independent Research."

"Meanwhile, the banks' retreat from second-line stocks, in particular, is opening opportunities for independent research firms. Major players such as Equinet, Independent Research or SES Research are already well-established."
